

WCRA - RWM Partnership Announcement 2018

We are thrilled to announce the WCRA's partnership with RWM 2018, the Recycling and Waste Management Exhibition.

Under the brand-new management of PRYSM Media Group, RWM returns to the NEC Birmingham on September 12th and 13th. The UK's leading environmental exhibition is completely free to attend, with tickets now available on the RWM website.

RWM will host over 350 expert-led seminars across two packed show days, attracting over 12,000 waste professionals from across the globe. The NEC will be filled with more than 500 cutting-edge exhibitors, bringing together professionals across the retail, leisure, manufacturing and construction industries as well as local authorities, trade associations and waste management companies.

WCRA Executive Director Tony Khoury will be joining an international panel discussing recycling challenges on Thursday 13th September 2018 – further details of which will be released soon.

Under PRYSM's fresh new management, RWM will see a plethora of exciting, significant changes. For the very first time, the former Supply & Demand Zone will be replaced and transformed into its own separate event; the Future Resource Expo in Hall 4, a show dedicated to helping organisations find more efficient, sustainable and cost-effective ways of managing their energy and water supplies.

Another significant change sees this year's exhibition run alongside three other leading environmental events from PRYSM's portfolio; The Flood Expo, The Contamination Expo Series, and The Marine & Coastal Civil Engineering Expo. As a result, with a FREE ticket, visitors can gain access to all five co-located events in September!

Join over 20,000 professionals from around the world and register for your free ticket here today!
